

...About Politics

Dr. Thomas White, Ph.D., Navy SEAL, Quantum Physicist Foreword

"Why me? Why not me?" Like many, I find myself increasingly disillusioned and, quite frankly, "raging mad" at the condition of our world today.

I am Dr. Thomas White, Ph.D., Quantum Physicist. My work involves understanding the universe's behavior at the smallest scale—atoms, electrons, and photons. It's our job to test the rules of this quantum world and push their boundaries. However, I never expected to encounter smaller particles in our societal fabric until I started listening to certain political leaders currently running our country. I've found that their ideas often seem to represent the tiniest particles of rational thought. This realization makes me "raging mad." No one stretches the boundaries of reason more than the current political regime.

Dr. Keith Robinson and I have been friends for over 65 years. I consider him a brother, chaplain, advisor, and one of the kindest men I know. We grew up in church together, blessed with the best parents who taught us enduring life lessons. Back then, we weren't mad.

Coming from a military background in Special Forces, I served for 14 years before being medically retired. I've seen the best and worst of men and have been a patriot all my life. My family has served this country since the 18th century. There was a saying from my time: "My Country, right or wrong." We stood strong and dedicated, not only to our country but to anyone in need of our support. Today, that sentiment seems lost in the current political landscape, and that makes me "raging mad."

During my time as a SEAL, I worked in over 54 countries and lived in 18, gaining insights into diverse cultures and governance. Now, we find ourselves under a form of governance unlike anything we've seen in our country. So, I do have an attitude? You can bet on it! I'm not only "mad" but "sad" as well.

Dr. Robinson's insight and passion for this country, combined with his ability to express his thoughts with humor, agitation, and anger, is refreshing and poignant. His work, "Now That Makes Me Mad<sup>SM</sup>...about Politics," humorously yet directly addresses the heart and soul of the American people.

Join him on this journey and know it's alright to be mad; you are not alone. Welcome to the MAD WORLD in which we now find ourselves. Hopefully, we can cope and find our way back. Dr. Keith has shown us the path—now let's do something about it.
